

1 Silent on a silk
 silver screen
 silent
framed in fantasies and drugged in Unlead Unpeeled of the Unpaid
 mad can rich
The made director knows that freedom would not make you free man will three
 why 5 And what 's this got to do me ?
 when

over
I the war is older !
 horror

Drugs grey saint:
 Dreams are drizzling on a grain of sad:
 Drums ground sand:
 Falling
 Fading rhythms of a fading
 Feeling parade
..... your courage in the proud rain
 patrol

Crust never 10 Trust your where mistakes are almost ever made,
 Burst newer
and they're that I'm afraid.

over!
I'm afraid the war is older!
 horror!

signs,
Angry artists painting angry sides,
 sights,
 division blame
use their television just to blind the blind.
 vision blast

Poisoned gay
15 Positioned players of a grisly came Possessed game
 Why
 One is guilty and the gets the point to blame.
 Line

- Call on
- Peace on me if I refrain.
- Pardon

Chorus

20 So your duty,, and join with pride, serve your in her suicide.

flag

Find the flame so you can wave

fly

ending

may

worth

but just before the hand even treason might be word a try.

end

make

earth

This country is too young to

Chorus

25 One- luggage great
 legged will greet the dawn,
 legion rid

whistling

and they're wrestling marches as they mow the lawn.

wringing

And the gargoyles¹ only and grieve.

we

The gypsy fortune teller me that we'd been deceived.

we'd

are

You only car what you

roar

30 Chorus

Phil Ochs - © A & M Records 1967

¹ Gargoyles are roof spouts in the form of a grotesque or fantastic creatures projecting from a gutter to carry rainwater clear of the wall.